WHAT'S GOING ON WITH MISFIT STUDIOS

As with last month, October has been incredibly slow here at Misfit Studios. The new job I began in October continues to eat up my time because I have to prepare for a national conference my new employer is hosting at the end of the month. As their new content manager, that means a LOT of work for me. In addition to that, my sister-in-law got married October 1st, and my wife was the maid of honour. That has eaten up a lot of our family's time over the past six months. But both of these things will be over by the end of October, so I hope the pace will pick up a bit more.

Last month saw Misfit Studios host an incredibly successful Savage September sale, during which we reduced costs across the board on our Savage Worlds back catalog. We also released a significant new product for this license and had hoped for more, but time got the better of us. We hope to see some of those Savage Worlds products that didn't make it out for September get out to you this month instead.

In addition to the 10 headquarters add-ons featured in each of the previously released products (totaling 40 add-ons), the Headquarters Construction Guide for Savage Worlds contains additional content we've not previously published.
